

From Research Distress to Research Success

Google Scholar

<https://scholar.google.com/>

Google Scholar provides a place for searching sources across different disciplines and formats: journal articles, theses, books, abstracts, online repositories and so on. It is worth noting that not every source you found on Google Scholar will be peer-reviewed, so you will need to carefully examine the quality of the source before including it in your research. Also, while Abstracts are freely available, you might need subscriptions to read full-text for some articles. Linking Google Scholar with the Arden Library will provide you with a quick overview of which entries are available in the Arden Library.

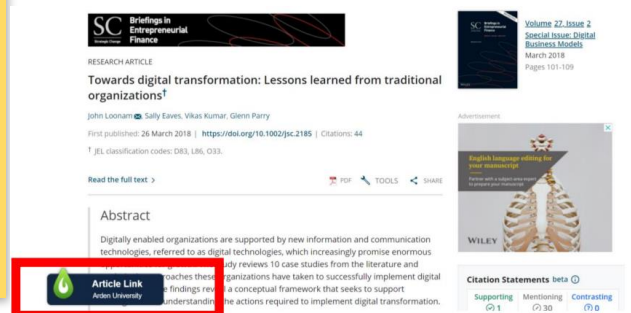

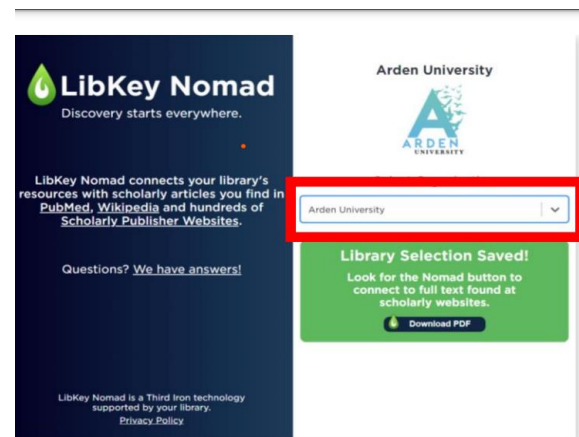

LibKey Nomad

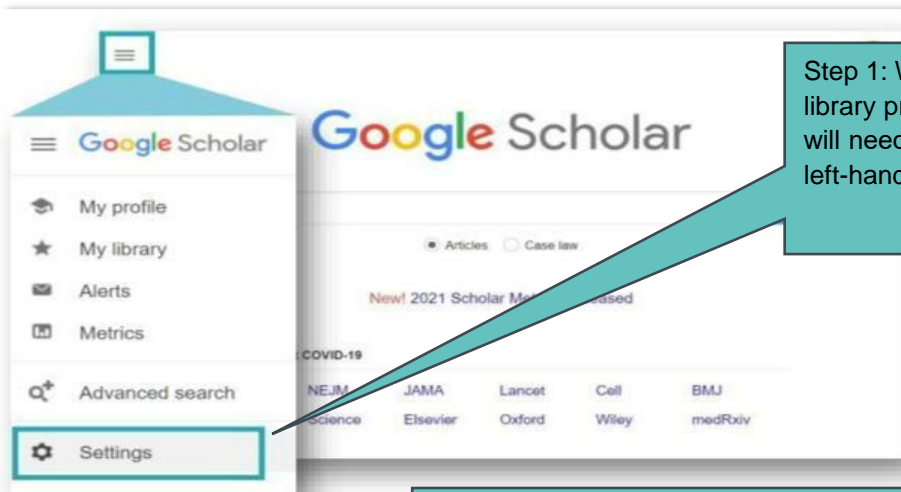

LibKey Nomad is a useful browser extension that delivers one-click access to the full-text articles of library-subscribed journals and open access journals.

You will need to install LibKey Nomad to your machine first. Here are the three simple steps:

1. Go to the LibKey Nomad download page (<https://thirdiron.com/downloadnomad/>)
2. Choose your browser (Chrome, Edge, Firefox, Safari, Brave and Vivaldi)
3. Once installed, open LibKey from your browser and select Arden university to link it to our collections and subscriptions

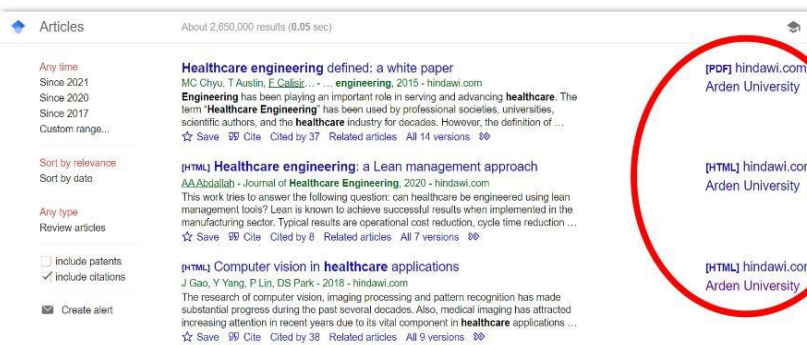

Linking Google Scholar to Arden Library

Step 1: When linking Arden University's library provision to Google Scholar, you will need to select "settings" in the top left-hand corner.

Step 2: Under 'settings' go to 'library links' – this will then produce a search bar where you will search for 'Arden'. A tick box for 'Arden University Limited – Arden University' should appear. Select this option and save your settings.

Step 3: Once the link has been created with Arden's Library, you will see 'Arden University' next to any articles that are included in Arden's Library collection. Simply clicking on 'Arden University' will take you to the full text options.
